

Progression Document: Persuasive texts

Purpose: To argue a case from a particular point of view and to encourage the reader/listener towards the same way of seeing things.

Features of a persuasive text

*Non-Fiction Texts produced by the National Strategies

Generic text structure	Grammatical features	Planning and preparation
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>An opening statement (thesis) that sums up the viewpoint being presented. (Greentrees Hotel is the best in the world. School uniform is a good idea.)</li> <li>Strategically organised information presents and then elaborates on the desired viewpoint. (Vote for me because I am very experienced. I have been a school councillor three times and I have ...)</li> <li>A closing statement repeats and reinforces the original thesis. (All the evidence shows that ... It's quite clear that ... Having seen all that we offer you, there can be no doubt that we are the best.)</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Written in the present tense. This can include other forms such as present perfect e.g. people have said...</li> <li>Often refers to generic rather than specific participants e.g. Vegetables are good for you. They ... This means that cohesion is created through the combined use of nouns and pronouns.</li> <li>Uses adverbials e.g. therefore, however to create cohesion within and across paragraphs.</li> <li>Uses logical conjunctions, adverbials and prepositions e.g. This proves that ... So it's clear ... Therefore ...</li> <li>Paragraphs are useful for organising the content into logical sections.</li> <li>Requires the writer to make formal and informal vocabulary choices by moving from generic statements to specific examples when key points are being presented. (The hotel is comfortable. The beds are soft, the chairs are specially made to support your back and all rooms have thick carpet.)</li> <li>Sentence types include rhetorical questions e.g. Do you want to get left behind in the race to be fashionable? Want to be the most relaxed person in town? So what do you have to do to?</li> <li>Modals can be used to suggest degrees of possibility e.g. this could be...you should...you might want to...</li> <li>Sometimes the second person is useful for appealing to the reader e.g. e.g. this is just what you've been looking for. This also enables adaptation of the Degrees of formality and informality so that the text appeals to the reader.</li> <li>Adjectives can be used to create persuasive noun phrases e.g. delicious chocolate...evil hunters...</li> <li>In some formal texts, it may be possible to use the passive voice e.g. It can be said...it cannot be overstated...</li> <li>Repetition can be used to strengthen your point of view. This also acts as a cohesive device.</li> <li>Because arguments include hypothetical ideas, conditional language, such as the subjunctive form can sometimes be used e.g. If people were to stop hunting whales...</li> </ul>	Decide on the viewpoint you want to present and carefully select the information that supports it. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Organise the main points to be made in the best order and decide which persuasive information you will add to support each.</li> <li>Plan some elaboration/explanation, evidence and example(s) for each key point but avoid ending up with text that sounds like a list.</li> <li>Think about counter arguments your reader might come up with and include evidence to make them seem incorrect or irrelevant.</li> <li>Try to appear reasonable and use facts rather than emotive comments.</li> <li>Choose strong, positive words and phrases and avoid sounding negative.</li> <li>Use short sentences for emphasis.</li> <li>Re-read the text as if you have no opinion and decide if you would be persuaded.</li> <li>Remember that you can use persuasive writing within other text types.</li> </ul>
